

Holcomb Energy Systems LLC

The Future of Energy on Planet Earth

STATEMENT BY HOLCOMB ENERGY SYSTEMS

In August 2023, B&K Energy, LLC, filed a lawsuit against Holcomb Energy Systems, the company that holds our intellectual property, and us individually, asserting baseless claims that our technology is non-functional, a scam, and that our patents worldwide were obtained by "tricking" multiple patent offices. We are confident that the evidence will affirm the effectiveness of the HES technology. For example, we have third-party witness verifications from the world's leading testing, inspection and certification firms, verifying the HES technology's efficacy. We also have videos recorded by individuals now alleging our technology is a "scam" that show the opposite—the HES technology works as advertised. We did not back down and have engaged Patterson Intellectual Property Law to protect our interests, who immediately filed a Motion to Dismiss. In response, rather than argue the merits of its lawsuit, B&K Energy sought to avoid an adverse decision by hiring new counsel and filing an amended complaint that is best described as a shotgun pleading. That amended complaint appears to be an attempt to consume our resources, as B&K Energy dropped our intellectual property holding company from the suit. We are confident our counsel will successfully defend against this latest assault.

In a separate suit filed in Florida, members of the same group attempted to evict us from our Research and Development Center. Currently, the Plaintiffs in this suit are on their second set of lawyers and their fourth different attempt at filing and refiling the case, and our lawyer is moving to dismiss that fourth attempt as well. All prior complaints have been dismissed and the Court awarded prevailing party attorney's fees against the Plaintiffs and in our favour, which Plaintiffs have refused to pay.
